When will films play?

Main Attractions
Film Booking. Our main films play week-to-week from Friday through Thursday. Every Monday we determine what new films will start on Friday, what current films will end on Thursday, and what current films will continue through Friday for another week. All films are subject to this week-to-week decision-making process. We try to play all of our Main Attraction films as soon as possible. (For more info on the business of booking films and why some films play longer or sooner than others, visit our website.)

When Will a Film’s Run Start?
After we decide on Monday (Tuesday at the latest) what new films will start on Friday, we immediately let you know on our website and on our hotline.

We’ll send you an email message every Tuesday as to what is coming and going on Friday. (Sign up at our web site.)

Make Sure That We Have Your Email Address
We can keep you up-to-date on all our events and scheduling via our weekly email notices. Visit our web site to sign up, and then stay plugged into our latest programming news.

In the Shadow of the Moon
Great Britain – 1 hr 36 min – David Sington
The excitement, majesty, and extraordinary human accomplishment of America’s Apollo flights to the moon are rousingly captured in this marvelous film. Deftly mixing archival footage with commentaries of astronauts from the moonshots, this British film produces a visual and audio vibrancy that brings the stirring story alive. Not to be missed on the big screen.

There Will Be Blood
USA – 2 hr 38 min - Paul Thomas Anderson
Paul Thomas Anderson returns with this ambitious western epic about a turn-of-the-20th-century Texan prospector who discovers oil. It’s a compelling parable set in a world dominated by family, greed, religion, and oil—a world that bears no small resemblance to the world of today. Based on the novel Oil! by Upton Sinclair and starring Daniel Day-Lewis.

Margot at the Wedding
USA – 1 hr 32 min - Noah Baumbach
Noah Baumbach (The Squid and the Whale) continues to examine domestic life with this film about a woman who attends her sister’s wedding. It’s a small character piece that’s darkly satiric and perversely funny. Funny because the characters are narcissistically self-absorbed to the point of absurdity. Neurotic doesn’t begin to describe them. The ensemble cast includes Nicole Kidman, Jennifer Jason Leigh and Jack Black.

A Word About Our Main Attractions:
We try to play each of the films on these two pages as soon as possible. Sometimes, however, because of scheduling conflicts or problems with print availability, we are unable to play a film before its video release. (The “theatrical window” is getting shorter and shorter.) We apologize for when this happens. Know that it is our top priority to play as many great films for you as possible. For more information, visit our website. Thank you.

No Country for Old Men
USA – 2 hr 2 min – Joel and Ethan Coen
The Coen Brothers return to form with this scorching blast of neo-noir filmmaking. Near the Rio Grande, a man stumbles upon dead bodies, a hoard of heroin, and 2 million dollars. What follows is a series of violent and chaotic events that combine to make a film full of excitement, down-home philosophy, and dark, dark humor. Starring Tommy Lee Jones, Javier Bardem, and Josh Brolin.

Before the Devil Knows You’re Dead
USA – 1 hr 57 min – Sidney Lumet
Sidney Lumet returns with one of his best films in years – a gripping crime thriller that also presents a wrenching family tragedy. Two brothers think they’ve come up with the perfect crime when they decide to rob a mom-and-pop jewelry store. That triggers a harrowing series of events, leaving no one untouched. Featuring great performances from Philip Seymour Hoffman, Ethan Hawke, Albert Finney, and Marisa Tomei.
Main Attractions

The Diving Bell and the Butterfly
France – 1 hr 54 min – Julian Schnabel with subtitles
This deeply moving drama explores the life of Elle editor Jean-Dominique Bauby, who suffered a stroke that left his entire body paralyzed except for one eye. DIVING BELL deftly reveals the interior life of Bauby through innovative camera work, creating a dreamlike collage of memories and fantasies. This gorgeous film is a small miracle in bringing such an emotionally powerful story to the screen.

The Orphanage
Mexico – 1 hr 45 min – Juan Antonio Bayona – with subtitles
From the producers of last year’s Pan’s Labyrinth, THE ORPHANAGE is a surreal and eerie ghost story about a woman and her son who travel to the orphanage that she grew up in. Events take a chilling turn when her precocious son develops a relationship with an imaginary friend. An atmospheric and spooky film with a formidable sense of visual elegance.

Persepolis
France – 1 hr 35 min – Vincent Paronnaud and Marjane Satrapi
Adapted from the graphic novel memoir by Marjane Satrapi, PERSEPOLIS is an amazing realized coming-of-age story, told from the perspective of a nine-year-old girl growing up in Iran during the Islamic revolution. Featuring beautiful and imaginative black and white animation, this film is alternately moving and funny — and a remarkable artistic achievement. It’s an autobiographical tour de force and is completely involving and accessible as an animated film.

The Savages
USA – 1 hr 53 min – Tamara Jenkins
Two siblings are forced together to care for their aging father, producing equal amounts of humor and pathos. Laura Linney, playing a long-aspiring playwright, and Philip Seymour Hoffman, a professor of drama, give wonderful performances that are real and emotionally textured. Are there two better actors working today? This superb film is a complete pleasure.

Major lobby improvements.

Yes, major lobby renovations to the inner lobby will be happening soon.

So major, in fact, that our Board of Directors will be presenting these plans to you prior to proceeding.

We'll have a display at the theater and on our website. We'll also have at least one public meeting with the architect and interior designer.

So, what's so major about it? Well, in addition to a complete face lift of the inner lobby (new carpet, new wall fabrics and a complete new color scheme), we're also proposing to change how you enter the theaters. The proposed new entrances will be from the side of the rear of the theater! Wait until you see the plans. We hope that this will help solve the problem of light and noise entering the theaters during shows. But let us show you, first, before you react. We hope to have plans for review in late January, so keep tuned. We hope you’ll be as excited as we are.

John Toner, Executive Director
Sandy Trainer, President
On behalf of the Board of Directors
A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE COUNTY THEATER

1907
Movies show in the back room of the former “County Linen” building at 22 South Main Street. It is called Hellyer's Movie House.

1909
Hellyer's Movie House is sold to Otto Kolbe, owner of the Lenape Building at 1 South Main Street. The theater moves across the street to an auditorium in the Lenape Building, where it stays from 1909-1925.

1925
Doylestown’s first actual movie theater is built in 1925 at the location of the current County Theater. It’s called the Strand Theatre and it opens on February 2, 1925. It's operated by Nicholas F. Power and partner Joseph A. Wodock.

1937
The Strand is sold to William Goldman & Associates, a Philadelphia-based movie theater chain. Charles Kahn, a Philadelphia real estate developer and a competitor of Goldman, purchases a separate property on the corner of Clinton and State Streets intending to open a competing theater called the County Theater. Kahn approaches Wodock about managing his theater. Seven months later, Kahn buys out Goldman and moves his plans for the County to the Strand Theatre site.

1938
The Strand is torn down, making way for the construction of a new, modernized theater. The County Theater opens on September 3, 1938 with a screening of Shirley Temple’s Little Miss Broadway. The County has the latest movie equipment and, more importantly, is equipped with air conditioning!

1940
On November 18, 1940, a near capacity crowd attends the first Sunday movie screening in Doylestown.

1940s
The theater is leased to Claude Schlanger and the Budco Theaters Chain. In the mid-fifties, yellow ceramic tiles, as well as upper blue tiles, are added to the façade, which, together with the original lower blue tiles, give the theater its current distinctive look. Budco builds the Barn Twin Cinema in Doylestown Township in the late 1960s, and continues to operate the County into the early 1970s.
1970s
The theater runs for a time as a dollar theater showing second run films. It also hosts occasional live rock concerts.

1980s
Charles Kahn’s widow sells the building to local businessman Jonathan Rudolph. The back third of the building is converted into apartments. The theater is then divided into two smaller auditoriums. The theater faces hard times. The theater is run by two different independent operators to limited success. The theater closes in 1992.

1992
The chair of the Doylestown Revitalization Board, Judge Edmund V. Ludwig, approaches owner Rudolph and a local film society, Closely Watched Films, about saving the theater. The film society agrees to take on the theater as a non-profit enterprise, with John Toner as the Executive Director. This non-profit venture, with the help of hundreds of volunteers, breathes life back into the theater. The theater reopens on February 3, 1993 with a screening of Enchanted April. The Crying Game opens a week later in the second auditorium. The non-profit group starts renovating the theater and restoring its art deco style.

1997
After a successful capital campaign in 1996, the nonprofit County Theater, Inc., purchases the building on April 1, 1997, and becomes the official owner of the County Theater. In September of 1997, the County Theater is closed to make major renovations. The theater re-opens after nine weeks of work. The building and its major systems and projection booth are now in excellent condition.

1998
The Neon Tower is removed from its perch above East State Street in May 1998 and returns in September 1998 completely restored.

1999
The Marquee is removed in October 1999 and is restored and re-installed in May 2000.

A NOTE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Without the help and support of our members, the County Theater project would never have happened. Membership continues to be the bedrock of our success. Thank you all. We’d also like to thank our Board of Directors, who guide and oversee the theater. Our current Board members are: Sandy Trainer (President), Louise McLeod (Vice President), Mary Beth Kineke (Secretary), Ron Stouse (Treasurer), Jim Bunn, Pamela Byers, Gregory Gore, Ellen Happ, Jack McMillin, Richard Patterson, Scott Petersen, Joel Stewart, Lou White, and John Toner (Executive Director).

Major renovations to the inner lobby are on the way. Check the separate page in this brochure for more details. We’ll be making these plans public soon.

Your thoughts and suggestions and feedback on all matters “County Theater” are welcome. Email us at comments@countytheater.org or leave a message at 215-348-1878. If you have any old photos or memorabilia of the theater, we’d love to see them, too.

Thanks,
John Toner, Executive Director
